

80 Years in a Cage

For a $20 fraud. This is not, and cannot be considered justice. Coercivist institutions, ie. the state, have a history of greater and greater abuses of justice. On these merits alone, they should be rejected forthwith. Justice here would have been at most $40 paid to the theatre and his name tarnished in the local newspaper, end of story. Instead, the state's conception of justice is 80 years in a cage, paid for by a coerced public. That's thousands upon thousand of dollars, per year, the public will be robbed to pay for this defrauder's caging.
