

Director of Communications

Nobody asked but ...

Wait, what? Did you know the White House had a Director of Communications? Nor I. In any event, this mystery minion (what does he do?) is stepping down. In a related development, today we are seeing a report reporting that POTUS is announcing an announcement about deciding to decide on disagreeing with an agreement. Still not making America great again.

— Kilgore Forelle