

End of Story

Not all Trump supporters are racist, but all of them decided that racism isn't a deal-breaker. End of story.

Not all Hillary supporters like toppling dictators and arming religious fanatics that burn gays and women alive or selling nuclear material to Russia (and by extension, China and North Korea), but all of them decided those weren't deal breakers. End of story.

Not all of us abstained from voting. But those of us who did refused to participate in an immoral system of aggression against our neighbors designed to create the illusion of legitimacy for a government that uses force, coercion, and violence to steal the wealth and freedoms of our friends, family, and neighbors. End of story.