

Flying in the Jailhouse Skies

Nobody asked but ...

When you go through that TSA checkpoint, you are not entering the friendly skies. You are incarcerated. You are detained. Your property is confiscated. The only way you can get out in an unexpected fashion is to die, or to crash, or to be hijacked. Whether you fly 100 miles or 5 thousand you will not leave the purview of the masters until they say so. You are within the hostile confines every step of the way.
