

“Food Insecurity” and Who’s to Blame

A while back I watched a video where someone was whining about “food insecurity,” and blaming it (and potential future worsening) on “climate change.”

Fair enough. But any current or future trouble from AGCC or “food insecurity” is blood on the hands of central planners.

Individual action, motivated by self-interest, would solve the problem. Only when the Grand Designs of Central Planners get in the way, with their “laws” and other one-size-fits-all nonsense, does individual action run into roadblocks.

If your grandkids or great-grandkids are starving in a future of bare store shelves and a destroyed climate, it won’t be greedy free-marketeers who are most to blame- rather it will be those who thought they knew how to run the world: government and the other “smart” archators. Hold them accountable NOW.
