

Happy No Presidents Day!

Nobody asked but ...

Let's use future third Mondays in February as a target date for celebrating the removal of the Constitutional office of POTUS. So far we have had 44 failures out of 44 attempts (although Thomas Jefferson was a great man in most other respects, Calvin Coolidge spoke eloquently on the merits of the office, and Grover Cleveland knew it was all a sham). When will this part, this synthesis of the British Monarchy, end?
