

Labored Day

Nobody asked but ...

What exactly is it that we commemorate on labor day? The hoodwinking of the American worker into the idea that merit has nothing to do with reward? The delusion of management in thinking that individual workers are not unique? The election by both to employ organized crime as an interface, to gloss over the brutality of their wrongful choices?

Kilgore