

Leading By Sharing

Nobody asked but ...

I am about to come around to my first anniversary here at EVC, and I cannot go further without emphasizing the obvious. This is a wonderful adventure to which Skyler has invited us all. Just a few moments ago, I read a share that Skyler offered on Facebook. I was delighted since I also am a big fan of Etymology along with nearly any other topic in linguistics. And then it occurred to me that “Great Communicator” was a fitting accolade for Skyler. Often great brow beaters and con men are called great communicators. These are people who covet your mind. If you want to be associated with a true great communicator, then start using the things that this great communicator, Skyler Collins, shares with you. You will be led toward enlightenment, not toward followership.

Kilgore