

Mandela

Nobody asked but ...

Skyler was correct when he posted that there are no gods on the Earth, but sometimes there are exceedingly unique persons. Nelson Mandela was one of those. Certainly he was a statist (in the end), but he was also certainly a voluntaryist. In fact, he was too complex to categorize. To those whose oxen he gored, royalists, authoritarians, colonialists, exploiters, he was a devil. To honor him, I will omit his British public school name, Nelson, and I will restore his Xhosa name, Rolihlahla, which meant, if that particular Wikipedia page is honest, "troublemaker."
