

“The Masses” Don’t Know and Don’t Care

You and I are not going to get through to most people. They simply don’t care if they are being enslaved or violated – especially if they believe they are being protected by someone else being “controlled” on their behalf.

I see this as cowardice and laziness, but they don’t.

They don’t know what liberty is. They actually believe cops and troops are protecting them and their “freedom.” And they don’t want to know they are dead wrong. They are content (or as content as they can be, under the circumstances) in their ignorance. It comforts them.

If you speak or write honestly, you will offend them if they happen across your words.

So be it.

You are not like them.

Just know that I know you are out there. I want you to know I am with you, as long as you don’t archate. In 2017 and beyond.

You are my people; my tribe. If I can consider myself to be part of a tribe.

They are the weather. Obstacles to be avoided or dealt with, but otherwise not worth getting upset over. Which makes me think it’s time for a bit of a change. Stay tuned.
