

On Deporting Justin Bieber

No, President Obama should not deport Justin Bieber. He shouldn't deport anyone. If Bieber has committed a (real) crime, then he should be forced to pay restitution to his victims. That's it. If people want to continue associating with Justin Bieber, they should be free to do so. Where he was born or why he's here is irrelevant to the fact that he has every right to live wherever he damn well pleases, so long as he does not use force or fraud in his arrangements. End of story. And that's today's two cents.

Skyler.