

Peer Culture

"We have completely isolated young people from adults and created a peer culture. We stick them in school and keep them from working in any meaningful way. In most non-industrialized societies young people are integrated into adult society as soon as they are capable, and there is no sign of teen turmoil. Many cultures do not even have a term for adolescence. But we not only created this stage of life: We declared it inevitable."

~Robert Epstein

photo by: Xoe Halldorson
fb.com/theUnschoolBus