

Radio Play

Nobody asked but ...

Yesterday, we made a radio play about a locally famous man and his horse. This play is intended for use by Radio Eye, which specialize in radio fare for people with sight impairments. But the most important element, to me, was that my two youngest granddaughters were in the cast, and they were treated as peers by us seniors. This was such a great experience and occasion for them.

— Kilgore Forelle