

“Rights” You Can’t Have

You don’t have the right to archate. No one does. No one can. Nothing can create such a right. Not wishes, not public opinion, not a “need”, not fear, nothing.

This means you have no right to murder, to steal, to govern, to “tax”, to rape, to commit prohibition, to enslave, to commit acts of “gun control”, to shoot up a crowd, to set up “checkpoints”, to trespass, to legislate, to do anything which in any way violates someone’s property rights or initiates force against them.

If you do any of those things, people have an absolute right to defend themselves from you. Again, you can’t get rid of that right just because it makes you unhappy.

This doesn’t change due to your “job”, popularity, position, or any one-sided government document.

I will never knowingly or intentionally advocate anything which would be archation. I am human, and I have feelings, and I sometimes might let feelings get the better of me. But I have no right to archate, nor to advocate for archation. It’s just the way it is, like it or not.

And I’m OK with that.
