

Statists Believe They're Smart, But...

...then they say things like how terrible new “synthetic marijuana” is, and how this problem is due to marijuana legalization around the country.

Or that Islamic terrorists are a big problem, so “we” need to keep using the US military to meddle in their lands so as to create more of them.

They come up with bizarre “crimes” such as “trespassing on public property”.

And then we see exactly how “smart” statists actually are.

Sorry, but if you believe more government will solve a problem, you are the problem. And none too bright.
