

They Are The Enemy

Can't we all just get along?

If you advocate the initiation of violence against innocents, then no, we can't. And you are why we can't, because you are the one condoning aggression.

Some people say things like, "We need unity, and to work together, we can't let the powers that be divide us!" ... but they're talking about having "unity" with authoritarian statists. Um, no. If my goal is ending statism (and it is), why the hell would I want statists on my "team"?

When it comes to people who advocate the subjugation of mankind, I don't have a common cause with them, and we don't have a common enemy. They are the enemy.