

Congrats to Lorenzo for defending himself against the predators in Florida and getting a dismissal. While there is no direct evidence the failure of the judge and prosecutor to respond in eight months to the motion to dismiss and discovery request led to the dismissal, I don't think we can totally discount that.

The direct evidence only proves the complaint was dismissed because there was no trial within the required 180 days. But, there is still the question of why there was no trial. The motion to dismiss is based on a lack of evidence proving personal and subject matter jurisdiction. The discovery request only sought such evidence and witness with personal knowledge.
