

Why Not All

Nobody asked but ...

Last week, after many public figures had been ostracized for sexual misconduct, the only ones standing were elected politicians. Now two of those politicians have resigned, two or more are still standing. It does not matter how much these miscreants delude themselves. It matters that some think they can delude us. The burning question is, “why not all?”

— Kilgore Forelle