

China's Black Market City

Freedom has been mostly “legalized” over the last few decades in Wenzhou “where the mountains are high, the emperor is far away, and people are busy creating their own economic miracle.” Must read article from Reason.com on this bastion of voluntaryism.