

Church and State, Beside the Point

Editor's Pick. Written by Michael Rozeff.

Only because people are forced to live under territorial monopolists is the separation of church from that monopolist an issue of any substance, because then people of different religious persuasions or philosophical beliefs vie for their preferred state and accompanying religious trappings.

Read the full thing at LewRockwell.com »