

Election Results

Nobody asked but ...

Every commentator who has any credibility left for a voluntaryist has said literally the same thing. To wit — congratulations, a whole 1/3rd of you voted, congratulations, in very, very rare instances did a winning candidate garner even 20% of the American vote, congratulations, you provided cable news with their periodic dog and pony shows on election returns. So, what has changed? Your lives are being run by Barack Obama, Hillary Clinton, exit Harry Reid, enter Mitch McConnell. Other than a few interesting state initiatives (which the feds will begin to try to crush starting today), there we stand in our pinwheel beanies waiting for the next orders from the oligarchy. War, anyone? Government school, anyone? Taxes, anyone?
