

Obsolete and Decaying before Our Eyes

Politics is obsolete.

Statism is obsolete.

Those who continue to live in that world are clinging to an obsolete way to live among others. They are tragic.

Their archaic “system” is rotting before our eyes. It has been failing for 5000+ years, and the decay has accelerated in the past couple of centuries. Yet they keep pretending it’s salvageable.

Statists remind me of those pathetic monkey mothers who will carry their dead infant around until it falls apart in their arms. They aren’t to be hated, but to be pitied.

It’s only when they try to force others to hold the rotting corpse and coo over how beautiful it is that I feel hatred for them. I don’t want the diseased corpse in my life or in the lives of those I care about. I don’t even want it in the life of anyone I might hate, unless they beg for it. You don’t have to give it up, but keep it to yourself.
