

Ozark

Nobody asked but ...

I have watched all of the seasons of Ozark on Netflix. I have binged. I must admit that I am direly disappointed in the human kind, whether it provides a realistic base for the atrocities of Ozark, or the likelihood of its fictions. I am also saddened by other “entertainments” I have recently seen, heard, or read. Slaughterhouse 5, Shot Through The Heart, The Revenant, Blood Meridian, There Will Be Blood, Johnny Got His Gun, Goodfellas are some of these.

All of the aforementioned works are also excellent. If we can imagine evil so vividly, why can we not put it away, far away from our lives?
