

Road Test

Nobody asked but ...

Here is a good way to check your latent tendencies on the voluntaryist/interventionist scale.

When you are riding shotgun with a significant other or a close associate driving, do you:

- Give unrequested directions? If not, you might be a voluntaryist.
- Ask what route will be taken? If not, you might be a voluntaryist.
- Mime the mechanical techniques of operating the vehicle? If not, you might be a voluntaryist.
- Point silently turns that could be made? If not, you might be a voluntaryist.
- Supervise braking, accelerating, and speed decisions? If not, you might be a voluntaryist.
- Relax and trust the driver? If so, you might be a voluntaryist!

— Kilgore Forelle