

Self-Ordering

Nobody asked but ...

Isn't this POTUS something else? He commits gaffes by the hour. For a while there, I feared he would not self-destruct, but he is about to finish a year of singular failure. This guy would need to climb a couple of rungs to even get in the contest for worst POTUS ever. The cool thing is that we could have had either major party win and still have been in a golden position for doing away with the broken office of POTUS for the future.
