

Start Here

Everything “unimportant” that you want to study is connected to something “important” that you need to study.

The stuff you’re interested in is the gateway drug for other forms of knowledge.

What are the best books to buy? The ones you’ll actually read.

Which ones are those? The ones pointing to possibilities that capture your imagination; the ones you’ll insist on reading even when the world threatens you with disinterest or disapproval.