

The Dance of Unschooling

Editor's Pick. Written by Pam Laricchia.

Reader Question:

I would love to hear your take on unschooling in a co-operative circumstance. How much "getting out of the way" and how much instigating would you encourage? I know all kids and families are different but isn't it just as much our responsibility to teach kids how to work together, respect each other and learn through organized activities?

There are so many facets to this lovely question—I really enjoyed diving into it! To organize my answer a bit, I pulled out four ideas that it touches on and discussed them from an unschooling perspective. Let's get started!

Read the full thing at LivingJoyfully.ca »