

The Ideal of Informed Consumerism

Editor's Pick. Written by Connor Boyack.

The government destroys informed consumerism when they prevent ... consumers from making their own choices and reaping whatever consequences may come. A state that treats its citizens like adults must step out of the way and allow them to ingest what they please, provided nobody else's rights are violated in the process.

Read the full thing at LibertasUtah.org »