

The World of Impossible Crimes

Guest post by Michael Suede.

I want you to imagine for a moment that the police have created a new security monitoring system that makes it impossible for anyone to commit any crime and get away with it. The minute you commit a crime, every detail about that crime is immediately transmitted to the police, and they have nearly unlimited resources to deal with you.

Read the full thing »