

Two Twenty Two Twenty Two

Nobody asked but ...

This will be the only 22222 (mddy) in our lifetimes

We will hardly notice it

Only paying attention to things like the fictional war being cooked up for Ukraina

The Military Industrial Journalistic Political Complex has discovered that

Weaponry can be generated by threat of war, short of real war

Every sword is being rattled

No stone remains unturned

The very communication channels are humming with the sound of marching boots

Yet we have forgotten Wag the Dog.

Things are coming undone

We have forgotten a story that has lasted the duration of humanity

Of war

The millennia have rolled past many instances of 22222, or it's like

When will we notice that all of these epochs

Each and every

No peace

There will always be war, we assert without support

Yet we do not know why.

The onset of war comes from those

Who can ignore its probabilities

Over all the eons of human time.

— Kilgore Forelle