

.

1971!

The passage is from the most dogmatic book I've read all year, William Ryan's classic Blaming the Victim.

P.S. The unedited second sentence begins, "Scores of Black Panthers and other young black militants," which obviously would have given the approximate year away.