

Words Poorly Used #103 — Charity

With repeated catastrophes, one cannot be on the scene helping in most cases. Sometimes we can only donate money or time through surrogates. It is frustrating trying to assist charities. Like all organizations, they have pockets of management dysfunction, pockets of people problems. This is also the reason why big government bureaucracies have so many fail points, many egregious fail points.

— Kilgore Forelle