Words Poorly Used #19 — Minarchy

I cannot say it better than Amanda Billyrock ('This is the last argument I will direct toward self-professed "minarchists".'). I will not try, but I will add a few observations that she has inspired in me. If one's idea of freedom is attached to the idea that the state must cease, then one will forever be imprisoned by that idea. If one's idea of freedom arises through a realization that the state is absurd, one is already free. Walk away from the minarchists. They are the worst security freaks of all. Please read Amanda's post (If you cannot access facebook, then check the copy here)!
